Market commentary

Despite hitting new record highs multiple times in October, the S&P/ASX 200 Accumulation Index ended the month in negative territory, falling -1.3%. Shares declined towards month-end as the likelihood of an imminent rate cut faded after data revealed underlying annual inflation of +3.5% to the end of September, still above the Reserve Bank of Australia's target range of 2-3%.

Australian banks continued their stellar run in defiance of fundamental valuations. The financial sector gained +3.3% in October and is up more than +45% over the past 12 months.

We recently held Argo's 78th Annual General Meeting (AGM) in Adelaide. Thank you to all those who attended. If you couldn't join us, materials from the AGM, including speeches, slides and videos, are available on our website: argoinvestments.com.au/agm.
